GENERAL SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

Manager Phillips was in a mood to talk frankly about the local team last night and the details of the recent trip. Horace is not a man who is easily discouraged, and the apparent shortcomings of the team while away from home have little or no effect on him. He also made a statement last evening which shows that all the players are not in the best of condition. During a conversation last evening he said:

"There is one feature that I want made clear regarding our playing with the Association clubs. I never termed any of those clubs 'dnbs.' I have been quoted by papers of Association cities as using that term, but the charge is false. We didn't set out with the intention of disparaging any team or anybody. While practice was our great object we made reasona-ble effort to put up good games. The players generally have done well, considering that it was their first effort of the season. In fact, many of them have done so well that there will he great difficulty in selecting our regular nine. The trouble will be in determining who we will Maul is doing well, and so are Nicol and Coleman. They are doing such excellent work that really at present I don't know who of them would be best to keep. As usual, our pitchers our trouble every season, and I'm sure we offer every reasonable inducement to them to get into line. Conway has gotten a cold in his arm, but I don't think it is of much significance. Of course I am well satisfied with Lauer, but he also has an injured arm; at least it is poisoned. The dye of his new uniform penetrated a sore on his arm, and poisoning set in.

His arm is considerably swollen, but the case is not a serious one. He will be a great catcher,

I think.

"We will not select our team until after all the exhibition games and even then we may keep some of the younger players who are not assigned to a regular position. Allen has not had a fair chance yet.

HE WAS NERVOUS in the game that he played and was extremely afraid of his ankle. Altogether, I am confident that we have a stronger team than we have ever had. All that is needed now is good practice twice a day, and this must be done, of course our trip West was not a brilliant one, but if we had stayed at home we couldn't have had the practice that was gotten on the trip. During our absence the grounds at Recreation Park have only been in condition to play en Park have only been in condition to play en two days."

Regarding the comparison made by certain writers about McPhee and Dunlap, Manager Phillips said: "Now let it be understood that Dunlap during our trip was not so foolish as to run any danger of hurting his ankle, or injuring himself in any way. Fred simply says wait until the warm weather comes and we are out for the stuff, and then people can judge as to good or bad playing. McPhee is a good player, but Dunlap is just as good. Fred, at any rate, is good enough for us, or anybody else for that matter."

The Allerhenies will play at Johnstown to-The Alleghenies will play at Jonnstown to-day against the club at that place. Galvin and Miller will be the Allegheny battery. The players will leave about 8 o'clock this morning and return this evening. On Wednesday and Thursday the Toronto aggregation will be here.

IMPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 BUFFALO, April 14.—"Mascot" Grant, the ebony second baseman, is not likely to play with the Buffalos this year. Manager Rowe has been looking for Grant and Cliff Carroll with a view to signing them. Grant played with the Cuban Giants in Washington yesterday, and in reply to an inquiry said he would sign only for $250 a month.

This is considered too high and the other members of the nine threaten to rebel if he plays. Last year they refused to have their plays. Last year to pretting to have their pictures taken on Grant's account and objected to traveling with him. The boys acknowledge that he is a good player, but they are in rebellion just the same. Their sentiment is that colored men should not play with white men.

The echoes of the pedestrian contest were numerous and interesting yesterday, Almost all the contestants were at the Central Rink and had a look at the track on which such a stubborn contest took place. Golden was more broken up than any of the others. Hegelm looked like a shadow, but his legs were all right. Noremac was just as chipper as ever. The sheet keepers have completed the fig-ures regarding the amount of sleep each of the five winners had during the week. Correctly speaking it cannot be called "hours of sleep," but the time each was absent from the track. The list is as follows: Horan, 24% hours; Nore-mac, 23 hours and 37 minutes; Hegelman, 4 hours per day; Connors, 26 hours; Golden, 28 hours.

There is considerable talking about matches ternoon Messier stated that he was prepared afternoon Messier stated that he was prepared to walk any man in America 100 miles, bar Hoagland, George Cartwright at once offered to match a man against him but Messier deferred putting up a forfeit until later. There was a talk of a 25-milerace between Peter Hegelman and E. C. McClelland, of this city. The latter is willing to run Hegelman 25 miles and a race between them is likely to be arranged. Almost all the pedestrians except the five winners will remain in the city to take part in the 12-hour consolation next Saturday.

The deal was begun on Thursday, and at present the time of fighting is alone in the way. La Blanche is in Califor-nia, and the club wants the match to take place May 28.

IN THE FIGHT TO STAY.

Wherry's Anti-Discrimination Measure Through Thick and Thin-Hope at Least in the Near Future.

[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.] HARRISBURG, April 14.—Representative Wherry is in receipt of letters from Andrew Carnegie, in which that gentleman declares that he is in the anti-discrimination fight to stay, and will support Mr. Wherry through thick and thin. He will carry the fight through to the next session of the Legislature if a bill does not pass this Legislature, and it is quite likely the fight will have to be made there, and before the people.

Mr. Wherry said to-day: "The good

Mr. Wherry said to-day: "The good Lord and the people of Cumberland county willing, I will be in the next Legislature to help make this fight. Here is where I want to be and not in the State Treasurership or Governorship."

A Republican member, speaking on the subject to-day, said: "There is this peculiar feature about the Knights of Labor peti-tions for Mr. Wherry's anti-discrimination bill, that none of them were presented through the regularly appointed legislative committee. There is also a peculiar feature about the Knights of Labor legislation of the session that has succeeded, and that is that it all came from Democrats."

The prospects of any legislation adverse to the railroads going through the Legislature at this session are very slight, but it is more than probable that the bill that will be taken up is the railroad commission bill of Mr. Williams, of Luzerne.

The Williams bill was introduced on February 5, and was reported by the Railroad Committee, with a negative recom-mendation, on February 22. It provides for a commission of three persons, at sala-ries of $3,500 each, with $500 additional to the one elected chairman, and a secretary at $2,000. The duty of the commission is to know all about the railroads of the State, and for that purpose it is to have access to all books, papers, etc., of railroad corpora-tions, and may through the courts compel the production of these, when they cannot otherwise be obtained. It shall examine complaints of shippers against railroad com-panies, and its finding shall be accepted as evidence in any judicial proceeding. The commission is given no power to punish of-fenses, and the bill does not define any offense, except refusal to give the commission full and free access to all information, upon report of which to the Attorney General he shall take such action as he deems expe-

It is made a misdemeanor for the com mission, or any of its members, clerks, agents, etc., to disclose the business of one corporation to another. The commission i signed to see that the railroad companies obey such laws as exist, and to ascertain whether they are violating them or not. After that it appears it can merely recom-mend, and if the railroad officials do not see mend, and if the railroad officials do not see fit to adopt its recommendation, the only recourse of the complainant is to go into the courts. It may be intended to make the bill a basis for something stronger.

WARD M'ALLISTER HAS TO RESIGN His Position as Manager of the Grandest

Ball of the Century.

Washington Centennial.

THE COMMITTEE SAYS HE IS TOO OLD. His Superior Skill.

Ward McAllister will resign as manager of the Washington inauguration ball. He takes the request of the committee to withdraw very coolly, and naively tells a reporter how he came to get himself disliked. As for the committee, its members say the famous Ward is getting too old to conduct such an affair, if, indeed, he ever was able.

PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, April 14.-Since Mr. Fish's Centennial Entertainment Committee clipped Mr. McAllister's wings on March 21, thereby reducing him from a position of power to one of empty honor and a budge, the committee and Mr. McAllister have not met. On Friday he received a notification that there would be a meeting of the committee in Mr. Fish's office on Saturday. It was the same formal notice that every other member of the committee received. Mr. McAllister did not care to attend, but he did want to know what was expected of him. He wrote a note asking for that information, and received a polite request to resign his place as manager of the ball. A member of the Centennial Committee said to-day that the best thing Mr. McAllister could do was to act upon the polite suggestion. "The whole thing in a nutshell," said he, "is that Mr. McAllister is getting pretty well advanced in years. He must go, you know. Well, it is natural that a man of his years-but I'll tell you-the Entertainment Committee is not made up of the kind of men that can be bossed by any demagogue, big or little, old or young. Take a look at five men who are on the committee, for instance, take William Jay, Stuyvesant Fish, W. W. Astor, William K. Vanderbilt and Robert Goelet. You'll have to look far before you can find five other young men of equal ability and influence. Do you think they are the sort of men who will submit to bossism?

HE WILL QUIETLY RESIGN. Mr. McAllister said this afternoon that ne would now resign. He explained that the committee's letter was not a dismissal. The committee had no power to dismiss, His resignation from the committee has been draughted.

"My object," said Mr. McAllister this fternoon, was to do all in my power to make that ball a success. I am not a man who seeks work, you understand. I have the interests of the ball at heart, and if the committee thinks I can best serve the good interests of the ball by resigning, then nothing will give me more pleasure than to re-sign. I have no resentment for the com-mittee, and if they want my help or advice in any way, at any time, I will most cheer-fully give it to them. I do feel, you under-stand, a little stronger on balls than a rail-road president. You don't run balls and railroads the same way, though both of them do make fast time. "Mr. Gerry once told me," continued Mr. McAllister, "that it did not make the slightest difference whether you had bon-bons or pork and beans at a ball, or whether replied to him that anyone who went to a with rates per cent of incre differ on some points." WHOSE FAULT IT IS. "Why do you think the committee took

"Why do you think the committee took this move?" asked the reporter.

"It is undoubtedly all Mr. Fish's doings," said Mr. McAllister. "He's been stirring the other members up. Why, only a short time ago, when I gave up my books to Mr. Morris, the new secretary, I told him I would resign with pleasure, if the committee was hostile, and he replied that the committee was not hostile, and would be very glad if I would go right along with the work. His letter of to-day was the next thing I hear. "The whole trouble came of three causes. There's a mighty interesting inside history to it, you know. The first cause was my opposition to Fish's desire to turn the whole ball and banquet into a Republican ovation. I made a great many objections to certain proposals that clearly tended in this direction, and with that began the first estrangement between us. Why, Mr. Fish went out to Indianapolis last fall to see if Harrison would dance in the opening quadrille. Harrison, naturally, refused, and actually, sir, Fish telegraphed me that the quadrille would have to be abolished, because Harrison wouldn't dance. That is "The whole trouble came of three causes. because Harrison wouldn't dance. That is one instance. Gerry was with them in the desire to make it a celebration of the Republicans' return to power.

THE MAYOR GETS THERE. "The next thing in which I came in conflict with the men who are running the af-fair was my opposition to Mr. Gerry's de-sire to sit at the head of the table, near the President. The place belonged to Mayor Grant, who was Chairman of the whole committee. Mr. Gerry was only Chairman of the Executive Committee. I held to the point that the place belonged to Mayor Grant. Mr. Gerry said something, I be-lieve, about Mr. Grant not being able to carry the thing through, but Mr. Grant finally got the place. That started an op-position to me right away, on the part of Mr. Gerry, which has unquestionably been a factor in this trouble. There is another matter that was very potent, but I won't speak about it, because if involves the names of ladies."

"I suppose you refer to the selection of ladies to dance in the quadrille," suggested by agreeing with. In this affair I could have accepted his list only by making a fool of myself. The name of the dance—quaof myself. The name of the dance—quadrille d'honneur—demanded age, distinction and prominence in those selected for it, or if not age, it at least demanded the other two qualifications. At the ball given to the Prince of Wales on his visit here, about 30 years ago, such ladies as Mrs. Governor Morgan and Mrs. Bancroft danced the quadrille d'honneur. It seemed to me appropriate that this dance should be given. propriate that this dance should be given by people who were descendants of the men and women who stood around Washington in the opening dance of his inauguration ball, and I modeled my list on this idea."

A VERY GOOD DANDY.

Stuyvesant Fish Says McAllister Could Get Up a Patriarchs' Ball Quite Well, But This Contract Was Too Much for Him.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 NEW YORK, April 14 .- "The committee." said Stuyvesant Fish, to-day, "has been trying for a long time to get rid of Mr. Me-Allister, and they are mightily tickled now that they have succeeded. When the sub-committee was appointed to relieve him of his duties as Secretary, they found that he had entered into a great number of absurd verbal contracts and agreements. All of these they as gentlemen have assumed and will now carry out. Mr. McAllister's withdrawal will not injure the ball, seriously or otherwise."

"I will pay him one compliment," continued Mr. Fish. "His arrangements about the box tickets were excellent. All the details for the ball are now complete, the contracts are made and the boxes are sold. McAllister will do very well for the manager of a Patriarchs' ball. That is quite a different affair from this. Then he would have to provide for only 400 persons, and spend provide for only 400 persons, and spend only about $5,000. Here we have to provide for 800 persons, at an expense of $100,-000. What does he have to do to get up a Patriarchs' ball? He goes to Delmonico and says: 'Give us another.' Then he goes to Johnson and says: 'Give us another 400 carriages, just like the last.' The only changes he needed to make in the Delmonico order was to substitute different colored globes for the lights, a different brand of wine, flowers of a more seasonable kind or different color and a few changes in the

This talk about the McAllister 400 is all nonsense. It was Charles Delmonico who created them, by his building of a ballroom that would accommodate just that number. There are two 400's in this city. My brother belongs to the McAllister 400, and I belong to the other. McAllister is a very good dandy, but he is utterly incapable of look-ing after business matters."

HALSTEAD DIDN'T WANT IT.

That's the Bellef of Senator Sherman Neither is the Editor to be Governor-Other Editors and Senators.

Part of the United States Senate was at the Union depot last evening, Senators Spooner and Philetus Sawyer going home, and John Sherman returning to Washington to see the President, possibly about Ohio appointments.

It is not more than a week since Senator Sherman was in terviewed in Pittsburg; but a man of his experience and ability has always something new to say. Here's his

No, the rejection of Mr. Halstead by the Senate will not improve his chances for the Governorship of Ohio, for the simple reason that he is not a candidate. Mr. Halstead doesn't want anything. He wasn't even auxious to go to Germany, and the honor came to him unsought. The Senate certainly made a great mistake in reviving the Payne case. It is ridiculous to call up newspaper articles, Mr. Halstead has a kind heart and is without malice.

President Harrison has appointed a number of editors to important positions, but there is nothing remarkable or strange in that. General Jackson did the same thing.

As for the alleged snubbing of Mr. Blaine by the President, and the rumors that the former will soon retire from the Cabinet to preserve his dentity these are journalistic stories. will soon retire from the Cabinet to preserve his dignity, these are journalistic stories.

I am glad the Senate has lately disoussed diplomatic problems with open doors. The fishery question, extradition treaty and the Samoan difficulties were considered in public. Foreign countries never discuss diplomatic questions in secret, and why should we?

Certainly, I have always been in favor of developing our trade with South America. I wouldn't subsidize a line of steamsthps; that word subsidy is odious; but I would pay a good price for carrying the United States mall, say $100,000 to Brazil, whether 100,000 letters were taken there or not. Like the mah who spends money for a few years in building up trade from which he will reap profit in the future, such a system would materially increase our South American commerce.

Senator Sawyer said that the President had turned out of office twice as many, so far, as Cleveland did in the same time, and he thought this was sufficient to show that Mr. Harrison is not moving too slowly, that Mr. Harrison is not moving too slowly as the politicians complain.

Senator Spooner remarked that the Democrats had always been worried about Blaine, and they are responsible for the rumors circulating about him.

WASHINGTON, April 14.-A United States Senator has hit upon a novel plan for thousands, of good men in Western testing the faithfulness and sincerity of Pennsylvania—is dead. It had been looked office seekers. The Senator has a large for, and dreaded, both in that model housemail, and cannot afford to employ the neces- hold on Meyran avenue, Oakland, and ou sary clerical help to handle it, so when a of it; but that hope which springs man applies for an office the Senator sug- eternal in the human heart had caught at gests that while he is waiting for the appointment to be made that he give him a little of his time instead of holding down a chair in the hotel lobbies. If the applicant is the right sort of a man, he takes hold with a will and soon gains the favor of his patron. The scheme has served to throw out a number of the leeches who hang about the rooms of the public men, taking up their time, interfering with their work, but never volunteering to help them in any

The Senator, however, is very much embarrassed about one case: A faithful constituent has put in all his time since the 4th of March working hard, and the Senator has not yet been able to secure anything for him, though he has haunted several of the departments in his interest. He fears now the man will think he is using him, and that he will bring suit for services

RESULTS OF TWO COURTS MARTIAL. Army and Navy Circles Speculating on the PRPECIAL TELEGRAN TO THE DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, April 14 .- All the talk n army circles is the probable outcome of the Lydecker and Armes courts martial. The trial of Major Lydecker for neglect of duty, in failing to give proper oversight to the great water works tunnel for the Capitol, was long and searching. The finding of the court has been in the hands of Major General Schofield for several days, and will probably be approved and made public within a day or two. It is whispered about that the sentence of the court is that the Major shall be suspended from rank and duty for a period of two years.

As to the Armes case, it is a general opinion that in consideration of the Captain's peculiar temperament, and on account of his record for bravery during the war, the sentence will be a light one, probably censure and a brief suspension. It is understood that Governor Beaver, while too much of a soldier to attempt to interfere with the severe discipline of a court mar-tial, has expressed a hope that no supposed indignity suffered by him will procure any additional punishment for Captain Armes. The Captain has been anything but war-like since the beginning of the trial, and is said to keenly regret his indiscretions. It is asserted by some of his friends, however, that if opportunity offers during the course of the trial the Captain will explode a bomb by producing sworn evidence in re-gard to the conduct and transactions of some of his enemies who are high officers that will be decidedly startling.

Armes feels that he has always been Armes rees that he has always been hunted and persecuted by a certain army clique, and will do anything he can by way of retaliation, if driven to the wall. His former trial, which resulted in his dismissal from the army, was shown to have been a disreputable conspiracy, the chief actors in which were themselves soon dismissed from the army in disgrace, and while the Cap-tain's erratic, but really harmless, conduct in connection with the inauguration is deemed worthy of some formal action, the hearings of the court would arouse like in-Armes will produce something sensational

A MAN WHO WILL BE MISSED.

Superintendent Bell, of the Foreign Mail Service, a Hard Official to Replace, ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 WASHINGTON, April 14 .- One of the appointees of the late administration who is most anxious to surrender his place to a successor is Mr. Nicholas M. Bell, Superintendent of Foreign Mails in the General Postoffice. Mr. Bell has been from the time of his appointment one of the most popular gentlemen in the public service. Having mportant warehouse interests in St. Louis. the city of his residence, he presented his naker almost as soon as that gentleman was inducted into office, but it has not yet been accepted, and no successor has been ap-pointed.

During Mr. Bell's incumbency he gave special attention to the extension of the foreign mail service, and at the time of his resignation had negotiations well under way by which the conveniences of the parcels post would have been in operation between the United States and every South American State. At present nothing except a letter or a newspaper can pass by mail between this and the South American countries, and this renders it so expensive to send small parcels as to almost prohibit their

A young Spanish South American from Ecuador desired the other day to write a friend residing at Quito to forward him a few boxes of cigars, which are made there at about three for 5 cents, but which are superior to cigars sold in the ordinary shops of the United States at any price. He inquired of Mr. Bell what it would cost to have them brought by mail, and was informed by the superintendent that they could not be mailed at all. He discovered that the only channel through which they could be transmitted was a sort of express arrangement between the two countries, and that the carriage of a box of 50 cigars between South America and the United States would cost about $18, exclusive of duty and regardless of their value. Had Mr. Bell remained in office the arrangements for the parcels post would have been completed within a few weeks, but the cessation of correspondence touching the matter, and the probable inexperience of Mr. Bell's successor, will doubtless defer negotiations for six months or a year. MAJ. OMOHUNDRO DEAD.

The Popular Soldier and Newspaper Man Released From Suffering This Morning-Brief Sketch of His Life.

We may watch for it never so anxiously; anticipate its approach with all the precautions the human mind can conceive, yet Death, the unbidden messenger, comes into our midst at last an unexpected guest, and we shrink before the chilling shadow of his approach just as if his advent had never been thought of, and as if it had not been inevitable. This is the sad fact forced home upon the mind of the writer as he sits down to say on paper that Major Sidney Omohundro, his friend—the friend of many hundreds, if every ray of sunshine that darted through the shadows, and-well, they said, and all fondly hoped that "he was better."

He is better now, good man! But because he was so exceptionally kind and good and worthy of respect among all his fellows, it is said, for all who knew him to say "goodby," and feel that they shall look into his friendly eyes no more. Major Omohundro died of typhoid pneu-monia, at his home, foot of Meyran avenue,

Oakland, about 1 o'clock this moraing, after a very severe illness of only a little more than two weeks. He was so near death's door a week ago that hundreds of his friends began anxiously to inquire as to his hopes of recovery, and none seemed ready then to accept the verdict that he must die. They hoped, the physicians conferred again and again, and, gradually, as the sufferer lingered at the very threshold, and then seemed repeatedly to turn back and take another faint hold on life, there went forth the contribution of the contributi forth the expression that he simply must re-cover. He had been very ill in the sum-mer of 1887, but had got around with pluck enough to ride in the procession on Grand Army Day (although he was still a sick man); and everybody hand the unflinching courses of the man hoped the unflinching courage of the man was to pull him nicely through again. But this was not to be, for, although he seemed so much better that his son, as late as yesterday morning, felt encouraged enough to almost believe the crisis past, it was only the twilight gleam that precedes the fall of

Sidney Omohundro was born in Cincinnati June 22, 1842, and immediately after his collegiate education enlisted, August 31, 1862, in the Fourth Ohio Volunteer Cavalry, which was a regiment composed almost exclusively of the young business men of the Queen City. His regi-ment participated in the principal battles of the West and was with General Sherman in his famous march to the sea. Omohundro, after the war, studied law and did consider ble journalistic work in Cincinnati; then he engaged in mercantile pursuits until his health failed him, and finally again took up newspaper work. He is a chair officer of Post 3, and was a delegate to the last three State Encampments, an alternate to the St. Louis Encampment and a delegate to the Columbus Encampment. He was unani-Columbus Encampment. He was unani-mously elected Commander of the First G. A. R. Division, and also is Secretary of the General Court, and Chairman of the Court on Invitations, which position he has held everal consecutive years

He was also prominent in Sunday school work; was elected in 1868 to the work; was elected in 1868 to the honorable and responsible position of President of the Sunday School Union of the M. E. Church, of Hamilton county, Ohio; taught class at the Liberty Street M. E. and Smithfield M. E. Sunday schools in this city, and was identified with the work in Erie. He had been Superintendent of the Oakland M. E. Sunday school for a number of years, Major Omohundro held one of the mos important positions in the business office of exceptional fidelity, ability and popularity for more than two years last past. In addition he found time to attend to all the many calls of fraternity which could not but be exacting upon one connected with so many organizations, both among Union veterans and in other societies. He edited the best Grand Army column that the veterans best Grand Army column that the veterans read, attended the gatherings of his own post and others; and, wherever he went, either among the best business ment the leading veterans, that friendly, sincere smile of good fellowahip and unexceptional good will was sure to be reflected from the faces of those who encountered and were warmed by it.

Whether they shall all he able to cathe warmed by it.

Whether they shall all be able to gather about his bier or not, there will be more mourners on the day of Major Omohundro's funeral than have grieved to gether for many a day. To the family, Ed-ward, Erwin and Mortimer—the three sons -and their widowed mother, a very sympathetic, tender feeling will go out. The arrangements for the funeral are not yet completed.

No matter what the causes may have been Nature has given way, and unless her strength is restored, disease is certain to take possession of the body. The first thing any doctor does in such a case is to assist Nature, Here are some instances:

Prof. Austin Flint, of Bellevue (New York) College, says: "The judicious use of alcoholic stimulants is one of the striking characteristics of progress in the practice of medicine during the last half century."

The celebrated Dr. J. M. Carnwall says: "I am most happy to say, after a very thorough test, that for persons suffering with nervous and general debility or any wasting disease, or for delicate persons or invalids, Duffy's Pure malt Whiskey is the best tooic and purest stimulant with which I am acquainted."

There are fo higher scientific authorities than these, and they speak volumes. Beware of all bottled whiskies which may be offered you, except Duffy's. It has stood the test of time and is absolutely pure.
